NEWS FROM THE SOCIETY

Circuit Court Upholds Florida's Interior Design Licensure

Last week, the United States Court of Appeals Eleventh Circuit, in a closely watched case, upheld the State of Florida's interior design statute. The Court unanimously affirmed last year's District Court decision that Florida's licensing requirement for interior designers practicing in commercial settings is constitutional. The statute does not prevent any designer from performing the work they currently do, but expands the scope of work for those who meet additional requirements. Interior designers practicing in residential settings in Florida may do so without a license.

Share the Love

Sing it in a ballad, write it in a haiku or sketch it out – it's not how you say it, but how loud! Share your love for ASID and we'll love you back! Tell others all about why you love ASID and for every Allied, Professional or Industry Partner member you recruit, you'll receive a $50 voucher toward your ASID membership dues. The more love you share, the more $$ you receive. Go to www.asid.org/share for more info.

Searching for a Fellow Member?

It's easy – simply click "Find a Designer" on the ASID.org homepage and go to step #3 to search for a member by name. You can refine your search by location or specialty by using the fields in step #1 and step #2. Our online member directory also helps potential clients find the perfect match for their next great design project.
